TO MY HUSBAND

Free to fly...

I love you more deeply than words could ever say,
But now I must let you go; I have no right to make you stay.
This world no longer holds you—the pain is gone,
Your spirit soars, unbound, into a brighter dawn.
No more suffering, no more tears to shed,
The weight you carried has gently fled.
You are free to fly untethered, untouched by time,
A light so pure, and so divine.
I ache in a way I never knew was real,
A hollow sorrow no words can heal.
The silence is deafening, the emptiness vast,
But I know your pain is in the past.
I can almost hear your laughter, soft and near,
Now a faint echo only my heart can hear.
Your love surrounds me, though you're gone,
Guiding me because this all feels wrong.
So spread your wings, my love, take flight,
I'll look for you in the stars each night.
In the sunsets, in the wind, at the break of day until the end.
You're gone but not forgotten and now free to fly, but it hurts me deeply to say goodbye. I will always love you

Bronson's JOURNEY

Bronson Fictious Derouselle was born on June 8, 1974, in Houston, Texas to the late Edward and Viola M. (Lewis) Derouselle. On the evening of Tuesday, January 7, 2025, at 10:29 pm God gently and tenderly whispered for Bronson to lay all his burdens and enter the gates of Eternal Peace. Some of us never got a chance to say "goodbye" and took the last moments we spent together for granted.

He leaves to mourn the passing his wife Kizzy Derouselle of Houston, TX, two loving sons Zachary Douglas & Elijah Terrell Derouselle and one daughter Madison Marie Derouselle all of Houston TX. One brother Kevin S. Derousselle of Houston, TX, and a host of aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends to cherish sweet memories.

Bronson is preceded in death by his parents Edward J. and Viola M. (Lewis) Derouselle, one brother Mark Eric Derouselle, his maternal grandparents Clarence Lewis and Elvina Hamilton and his paternal grandparents Clopha and Ida (Davis) Derousselle and two aunts Ruth D. Cormier and Cordelia M. Ledet.
